

Farming may not be nuclear science, but it is a science. The 21st Century grower strives to achieve a high yield in the most efficient manner possible. Smart irrigation controls can help reach that goal.

The Reinke Precision Management (RPM) Advanced Plus™ pivot control panel makes Reinke advanced irrigation controls available at an affordable price. Access flow and pressure readings with a tap of your finger. Customize your home screen to easily access your most-used controls.

Our growers told us that they wanted to be able to customize their own panels but still have something that was easy to program – and we, of course, listened. RPM Advanced Plus is available as a faceplate to upgrade existing RPM panels, meaning you can have all the features you want without replacing your existing panel.

Plus means more. It's that simple. In fact, controlling a pivot has never been easier than with the RPM Advanced plus. It's 4.3-inch, touch-screen, full-color display has all the advanced control options needed for smart irrigation practice and offers some of the most-used functions at less cost than the traditional computer panel. The easy-to-program functionality includes standard electronic flow meter input, independent pump control, pressure and temperature restart, and speed control by percentage.

The RPM Advanced Plus is ReinCloud-Ready®, meaning you can access, monitor and adjust all the advanced controls from a smartphone. With a ReinCloud subscription you can remotely manage multiple systems with 24/7 operational access from one dashboard. For ease of mind, you can elect to receive ReinCloud notifications to alert you of changes in the system's status.

We are confident the RPM Advanced Plus offers unmatched reliability and durability. That's why it carries a five-year warranty whether it is installed with a new system, as a complete panel replacement or as an upgrade to an existing RPM panel.
